YANKS FIGHT SEESAW BATTLE

Innocent Plea Is Entered In Stick-Up Case

Repeatedly mumbling, "I only want to do what's best," a 25-year-old Chicago man refused Saturday to enter a plea at his arraignment for robbery.

Municipal Judge E. C. Fisher entered a not guilty plea for Amandos Saucedas, 25, and set his preliminary hearing for Sept. 15.

Saucedas, who police say posed as a wounded Korean war veteran, beat and robbed the owner of a combination sporting goods store and barber shop with the owner's own gun, was ordered to post $2,500 bail.

Inspecting Gun.
The state charges that Saucedas is the same man who was inspecting a gun he said he wanted to buy at the store of Oscar M. Powell at 340 South Tenth when he suddenly jammed bullets into the automatic and said: "Now stick 'em up and give me a gun."

This is the story Powell told police, according to officials:

Just before his 6 p. m. closing time Powell saw a man walk back and forth several times in front of his store. Finally he came in and said he wanted to buy a gun.

Powell showed him a German automatic for which he had no shells, but the man asked to see a gun and shells together.

When he was shown a Colt automatic with its .38 caliber shells, he slipped them into the clip and pointed the gun at Powell.

The sporting goods salesman and barber handed over a bank money sack containing an estimated $35 and a billfold with $35 in bills.

The bandit overlooked two cash registers in the store and another billfold in Powell's hip pocket.

Tries Resist.
"Now get in the back room," the robber said. As he pushed Powell rearward, he picked up a bayonet from the counter. He kept saying, "I don't want to kill you."

At the door to the back room Powell grabbed the gun with both hands and turned the muzzle from his body. The man dropped the bayonet and clubbed him over the head.

Finally the robber knocked Powell to his knees and ran out.

Thomas Granted Parole

Former Congressman Convicted Of Padding Government Payroll

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The federal parole board announced Saturday that former Rep. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) has been granted a parole from the Danbury, Conn., prison.

Dr. George G. Killinger, board chairman, said Thomas, who was convicted last year on charges of padding his congressional office payroll, will probably be released over the weekend.

The parole, he said, will become effective on Monday, Sept. 11.

May Leave Today.
"Since he has earned meritorious good time," he added, "the warden at Danbury may let him leave either today or tomorrow."

Thomas, who entered the prison last Dec. 9 to serve a term of six to 18 months, became eligible for parole on June 8.

Killinger said Thomas' first application for parole was denied. The former congressman has served more than half of the term.

Health A Factor.
The prisoner's health, said Killinger, was a factor in the board's decision to reconsider the parole application.

Killinger said arrangements have been made to take care of the $10,000 fine which Thomas drew along with his prison sentence.

At the time he was sentenced, Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff directed that Thomas, 53, "stand committed until the fine is paid."

Killinger declined to discuss details of the final "arrangements."

U.S. Might In Europe To Grow

'Substantial Increase' In American Troops There Is Approved

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Truman announced Saturday that he has approved "substantial increases" in the strength of the United States forces to be stationed in western Europe.

The president announced that he had taken the action on the basis of recommendations of the joint chiefs of staff, and that it had been concurred in by Secretary of State Acheson and defense Secretary Johnson.

Mr. Truman said in his announcement: "The extent of these increases and the timing thereof will be worked out in close co-ordination with our North Atlantic treaty partners."

"Our plans are based on the sincere expectation that our efforts will be met with similar action on their part. The purpose of this measure is to increase the effectiveness of our collective defense efforts and thereby insure the maintenance of peace."

The president's action came as the western powers considered immediate creation of a unified European army, under an American commander, capable of standing off the fully-armed Russian divisions spread along the eastern border of Germany.

Carl Junge Is New Head Of Red Cross

... Replacing Noble

Carl L. Junge was selected to succeed B. I. Noble as chairman of the Lancaster County Red Cross chapter Saturday.

Noble has resigned for business reasons.

Meeting at the Y.W.C.A., the chapter's board of directors appointed Max Roper to the vice-chairmanship vacated by Junge. No other changes will be made.

The directors also heard a report from Miss Isadore Brown on the group's swimming program for crippled children carried on this summer.

National Meet.
Another report presented Saturday was by Junge and Eugene Berg, N. U. student, who both attended the national convention in Detroit.

In business session, the board also discussed the 1951-52 budget and the Red Cross's role in civilian defense.

Junge is manager of a Lincoln motor company. He served as chairman of last year's Red Cross fund drive. Roper is a local mortician.

Wednesday	30,000	40,000
Thursday	40,000	53,000
Friday	40,000	40,000
TOTAL	231,000	278,000

Attendance At Fair May Be State Record

... 278,000 Total

Nebraska's week-long eighty-first state fair closed Friday night after some 278,000 people jammed in to make the fair perhaps the biggest in the state's history.

In many ways this year's annual state fair was the biggest ever put on in Nebraska. Nearly every show and exhibit was bigger and better than in other years.

If the gate receipts hold up, Ed Schultz, secretary of the fair board said, the 1950 fair should equal and maybe surpass 1929, when the all-time record was supposedly set.

30% Over '49
This year everything went about 30 per cent over the 1949 state fair, Schultz said, including both attendance and receipts.

To be changed before the next state fair is the tickets sale system at the grandstand. Secretary Schultz said the present ticket system was the only part of the fair that received any general criticism, and the fair board would try to inaugurate another system that will be of more benefit to the public.

The fair board, at a meeting Friday night, authorized Schultz to employ an engineer to survey the fairgrounds, establish grade-lines and make preparations for grading and draining the parking areas. The roads will also be graded, Schultz said, in preparation for applying crushed rock this fall and oil next spring.

Future Improvements.
And that, Schultz said, is just the beginning of the future picture of improving the fairgrounds.

It will take about two weeks to clean up the grounds, he said, after what is left of last week's fair—generally heavy pieces of equipment not carted off after the Friday night closing—is taken away.

Only in attendance is there a question as to whether the 1950 state fair was the biggest in history. Schultz estimated that 40,000 people were inside the gates at 4 p. m. Friday when the gatekeepers turned in their books.

1929 Record.
Back in 1929, supposedly the state's biggest fair year for attendance, Schultz said, about 300,000 people were credited with making their way into the fairgrounds.

But this year should beat that in actual attendance, since in 1929 every person was counted every time he went on the fairgrounds—some perhaps five or six times a day. For the past few years, Schultz has been counting the actual gate proceeds—dividing the dollars by two to come up with the number of people—and adding the numbers of concession and other pass-holders along with a sixth of the advance sales each day.

That is the way the fair secretary comes up with the day to day "estimate" of the state fair attendance. This year the total was 278,000.

ALLIES GAIN IN YONGCHON AREA—South Korean units battling to keep open the Yongchon-Kyongju road (A) pushed North Koreans back two miles southeast of Yongchon. Another allied force pushed northwest and west of Kyongju. However, the reds forced a 1,000-yard withdrawal in the Angang area to the northeast. An enemy attack north of Taegu (B) was reported "contained." In the southwest (C) reds and Yanks were engaged in seesaw fighting for Battle Mountain west of Haman. GIs were driven off the ridge Saturday. A high ridge northwest of Yongchon was lost and recaptured by U. S. 25th division. (AP Wirephoto Saturday.)

The U. S. 25th infantry division killed 1,500 reds there. That boosted communist losses on the southwestern front for the week to well above 15,000 men—a division and a half—and raised official estimates of reds losses on all fronts to 27,000 troops in 150 days—about 18 per cent of their 150,000 force.

Three thousand counterattacking North Koreans recaptured the Battle Mountain, which dominates the approaches to Masan port on the extreme southern Korean coast.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton said the reds drove outnumbered Americans off the peak in a thunderous assault and held it Saturday night.

Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo omitted its usual morning release, as it often has done when he has not outstanding fresh developments to report.

Rain and thickly packed clouds which covered the Korean battle fronts Saturday morning dissolved later in the day and allied aircraft went back into action after a 36-hour lull.

AP Correspondent Jack Macbeth reported from the Yongchon front that allied forces welded their once broken lines late Saturday at the end of a three-day assault.

Broken Lines Welded
Three thousand South Koreans there rammed out gains of more than two miles southeast of Yongchon to link with American and other republican troops punching westward from Kyongju, 18 miles southwest of the red-held east coast port of Pohang.

The junction in the mud of rain-lashed battlefields knit together a five-mile breach in the defensive wall that communist tank columns had smashed out in a breakthrough earlier in the week.

Yongchon, gateway to Taegu (20 miles to the west), was recaptured Friday from tank-led reds who held it briefly.

Sealing the line helped reduce the threat to Taegu from this battle flank, behind which 50,000 communist troops were trying frantically to build up power for a new thrust.

Second Gateway Held.
The second gateway to Taegu from the north was held solidly throughout the day. U. S. First Cavalry troops beat back red attacks against their dominating ridge positions seven miles north of Taegu, the main base of the Korean central war front.

The troopers had given up some high ground before red attacks down the Kusanwa "bowling alley" corridor Friday. But they clung to the main ridges above the flatlands leading to Taegu.

Correspondent Macbeth on the northeastern front reported the South Koreans fought with renewed vigor after stiffening. Their lines had cracked before the red steamroller in the week.

CAA Office Gets Kearney Base Problem
... Tuition Question

State Superintendent of Education Otto Ruff said today that Bill Boucher, Lincoln Civil Aeronautics Administration official, is pressing for a fast ruling on whether any income of the Kearney airport corporation could be used to pay tuition for children of families living on the airport grounds.

The airport is outside any school district and the Kearney school board has ruled it cannot accept the children in its schools unless tuition is paid either by parents or by some agency on behalf of the children.

The same applies to admission of the children to the Kearney state teachers college training school.

Ruff said it appeared any new move in the case of the 25 children involved now appears to be stalemated pending a decision by the Kansas City CAA office.

Close Northern Gap; Fall Back In South

... Mountain Changes Hands For 12th Time

TOKYO—(AP)—Allied troops snapped shut a dangerous red gap in the northeastern end of the Korean war front Saturday but lost a foothold at the other end of the 120-mile battline.

American and South Korean troops linked forces east of Taegu to close a threatening five-mile opening in the line between Yongchon and Kyongju.

U. N. doughnuts, slogging through mud, had U. S. aerial support for the first time in 36 hours as skies cleared.

Battle Mountain, most bitterly contested hill in the Korean battle zone, fell again to an attacking force of North Koreans on the southwest front. It was the 12th time in 16 days the mountain had changed hands.

The fighting was severe at Battle Mountain, two miles from burned-out Haman on the southwestern approach to Pusan port. North Korean losses in once again scaling the bald mountain were heavy. But their greatest losses of the day occurred in fighting swirling near Battle Mountain.

GOP Meet Roused By Governor

Peterson Defends Administration At State Post-Primary

By ARCH DONOVAN
(Star Staff Writer.)

HASTINGS, Neb.—About 250 delegates and spectators droued through an hour of a "view with alarm" talk on conditions in America at the opening session of the republican state post-primary convention here Saturday.

Chairman Dave Martin introduced Gov. Val Peterson with a plea that delegates stand up and give him an ovation. When they did not display satisfactory enthusiasm, he spurred them on to more applause.

As the delegates began to sit back comfortably in their chairs, this governor pulled them upright as he shook his finger at them and "pointed with pride" to his administration of state affairs.

Not Dodged
"I have not dodged, evaded or equivocated on any issue," he challenged. "I have taken the people into my confidence. Leadership demands taking stands on public issues and I have never refused to take a stand or state my position."

After firmly stating that he would enforce all laws without favor, including gambling, the governor devoted much of his address to the highway improvement program.

"As a private citizen and as governor, I think it essential that I tell the people where I stand," he challenged.

Always Have Problem.
He pointed out that Nebraska will always have a road program because of the large mileage in the state, low average income of the citizen, and the low population.

"The city residents pay gasoline taxes too," he asserted, "and for the first time they are now, as the result of the action of the last legislature, getting some return for the improvement of city streets that are used by all the citizens as much as the main highway."

He defended the right of the citizen to have a referendum vote on the law, but asserted that it was ill-advised and a waste of public money due to the fact that the legislature would be in session to make any changes desired within 60 days after election.

Speaking on economics, the governor called attention to the one and one-tenth mill levy passed by the legislature to improve public buildings. He said he sponsored and pushed for passage of the levy which will bring in $25,000,000 in (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

Employment Takes Jump In Nebraska

Lincoln Labor Pool Down 22 Pct.; Openings For Jobs Rise 26 Pct.

Job opportunities in construction, manufacturing, food processing and all other types of employment continued to expand in Nebraska during August. This resulted in a sharp decline in unemployment throughout the state, the Nebraska division of employment security announced Saturday.

The Lincoln office reported a 22 per cent decline in labor supply, while job openings increased 26 per cent. Strongest demand is for clerical, domestic and unskilled workers.

Jobless persons registered in the division's area offices in the state dropped to 4,991 on Sept. 1, nearly 1,400 less than the 6,377 registered on Sept. 1 a year ago. The jobless total for Sept. 1, this year, was also the lowest since Oct. 1, 1948.

The state job agency reported a total of 12,864 placements in August, half of them on farms. This represented a 19 per cent gain over July this year and was nearly double the 6,474 job placements recorded in August of 1949.

Placement gains were heaviest in construction where the gain this August over last year was nearly 75 per cent and in manufacturing with a 30 per cent increase in jobs filled this August compared with August, 1949. However, all other industrial classifications shared in the upward swing of jobs filled.

WEEK-END REPORT

A busy week on the telephone. . . Charge it up to the weather, the fact that things were happening fast. . . or perhaps a lot of people from outstate in town.

One call from a woman offered something new by way of comment. She said she thought the president had been hasty in his criticism of the marines. She added that, in her judgment, part of the members of congress lie awake all night thinking how they can get into Mr. Truman's hair, what is left of it. She may be right. Unfortunately, in American politics, lion-hunting is the favorite sport, and the bigger they come, the more the fun.

Here at home, it was a busy week. Out on the farm, millions of acres of the finest corn were putting in overtime trying to beat Jack Frost to the punch. And Old King Corn was doing a pretty fair job of it. General opinion was that another month, free from killing frost, was necessary for a maximum harvest. The youngsters picked up their school books and were crowding the classrooms. In Lincoln and at a large number of other Nebraska points, enrollment was up. By week's end, most of summer's fun had been packed away, forgotten, and thousands of Nebraska children were launched upon their battle with their school books.

An unusual number of readers called to express appreciation for the editorial on Barton Green. An old friend living in northeast Nebraska wrote to talk about his impressions of a trip through the Nebraska countryside. He drew inspiration from the tall corn, spoke of the freshly painted farm homes, the general air of prosperity in the rural regions, and then wound up with the inquiry if this is "prelude to socialism." He was referring, of course, to the improved status of agriculture, and to the lights that flashed on in the farm homes, thanks to rural electrification, when darkness settled. It is a good question, but it will not be answered by those who put in most of their time talking about the "socialized state."

Congress was getting ready to clear the decks. Adjournment might come any time, but the chances are that the word-battle on Capitol Hill, a real battle, will continue for another fortnight. Back in the news again was the dispute over statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. Mr. Truman started it off by pressing for recognition for both of the territories. Majority Leader Scott Lucas said the other night that Alaska and Hawaii would bump into a filibuster, he feared, engineered by conservative southerners. The public may expect those opposing statehood to fall back upon every argument but the real one crystallizing their opposition. The men opposed to admission are against adding four new members to the senate.

They give a great deal of force to their position by warning up exactly the same jealousies that flared during the constitutional convention.

It is unfair, they say, to have a region as sparsely settled as Alaska represented in the United States senate by the same number as old, populous, staid New York, Pennsylvania, or some of the other industrial states. Some of the republicans were afraid it would increase the democratic majority in the senate.

Years ago when Cornhusker football was taking on the look that gave it national recognition, a big, raw-boned lad showed up on the campus, named "Andy" Schoepfel. He played football for the Huskers, made quite a name for himself, and then years later became the governor of the neighboring state of Kansas. From the governor's chair, he advanced to the office of United States senator, succeeding Arthur Capper. "Andy" Schoepfel found himself squarely in the center of the Alaskan fight when he brought an ugly charge against the Secretary of the Interior, Oscar Chapman. Thank heaven, an outraged cabinet member, a former neighbor of Schoepfel's, a son of Colorado, had the intestinal fortitude to confront his accuser and take him to the cleaners! Schoepfel sat in silence while Secretary Chapman blistered him. Mr. Chapman challenged Schoepfel to make the charges outside the atmosphere of congressional immunity, and there ensued a humiliating scene.

Schoepfel sat in silence. When he finally opened his mouth again, he was a subdued, chastened legislator. Promptly the republican policy committee in the senate disowned Senator Schoepfel. It wanted none of his charges against Secretary Chapman.

And yet, in all of the months of McCarthyism, in the loose and reckless criticism of individuals, the Chapman incident is perhaps a logical climax of an era that ought to shame America. The courts were established to punish individuals who commit offenses against this country. Law in America started with a presumption of innocence until the proof of guilt in the regular channels of justice. More and more in the rising hysteria of flaming partisanship, one of the nastiest, and one of the ugliest developments has arisen.

If anybody has any serious intention of winning this war with Russia, and with communists the world over, they must recognize that America must have unity. It will not get unity if men in high places, or people in low places, run around the country gabbling in careless fashion, appealing to the basic emotions which are a part of the days in which we find ourselves. Sometimes we think a little of the old-fashioned woodshed treatment would be good for those who are assumed to have a sense of responsibility. Anybody who falsely accuses his fellow American of being a communist ought to be taken out on the public square and horse-whipped. In the state of public mind, it is a vile thing to do.

There must be room in this country for differences of opinion. If America is not big enough to permit people to disagree, then we ought to stop talking about democracy and, in enthusiastic pride, proclaim to the world that this is a fascist state. Communism is something else again. If any individual in the United States supplies America's secrets to Russia, if any individual joins Russia in its ideological warfare, that individual has forfeited his rights as an American, and the only thing to be added to this is that people who go around charging others with being communists ought to be pretty careful that they know what they are talking about. They should have some foundation beyond a difference in viewpoints on America's problems upon which to base those charges.

Little Carl Curtis was at it. At Falls City, Mr. Curtis placed the blame for the spread of communism throughout the world upon the doorstep of the late FDR and President Truman. The most general allowances can be made for men speaking in partisan spirit, but surely the voters of the First Nebraska District are not unreasonable if they expect a little bit more out of their spokesman than that. Mr. Curtis has served four terms, and is seeking a fifth. If he had any ideas to combat the spread of communism, he has been a bit tardy in presenting them.

On the Korean battlefields, there has been a week of dogged fighting. At week's end, the supreme bid of the North Korean communist forces appeared to have spent itself slightly short of the objectives they had fixed for themselves. But it appeared that there was no short core in Korea—that if the Americans expect to finish their business there, they can mark off several months on the calendar.

the same spread will be presented at the city hall on Sept. 20.

D. L. Erickson, city engineer, estimates this project to cost $15,000, the cost to be assessed against abutting properties. Specifications call for the completion of the lighting project on Jan. 1.

Triplets Born To Lewellen Couple

LEWELLEN, Neb. — (AP) — Triplets boys, born this week to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Robertson of Lewellen, have been sent home in "fine condition" by their physician, Dr. E. V. Vesely.

The boys join three older sisters at home, and the doctor reports that the family, as well as all of the neighbors, are excited over the unexpected additions to the household.

The boys have not yet been named.

William H. Brant also pleaded guilty to shooting from a public highway. He admitted shooting doves from within a motor vehicle. His fine totaled $20 and costs.

Contract Made To Refund Rulo Bridge Bonds

FALLS CITY, Neb. — (AP) — The Richardson county board of commissioners has entered into a contract with Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., Chicago, to refund the $435,000 Rulo bridge bonds and about $30,000 in delinquent interest.

The proposal calls for the issuance of the county of $474,000 in bonds to bear four per cent interest until their option dates and three and one-half per cent after the option dates.

The maturity date would be extended to Oct. 1, 1968. The bonding company has until May 1, 1951, in which to purchase the refunding issue.

The present issue bears four and one-half per cent interest and would mature Oct. 1, 1958.

At the present time, bridge revenues are ample to meet expenses, including the annual interest charge of more than $19,000, the board said. Besides tolls from auto and truck traffic, the county is collecting $500 a month in rental from the Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline company, whose natural gas line crosses the Missouri river on the Rulo span.

$1,512,380 In County Funds End Of August

Funds in the county treasury at the end of August totaled $1,512,380, according to a statement by County Treasurer C. E. Berg.

This is $54,572 over the $1,457,808 total at the end of July, Berg said.

County funds totaled $823,076, with almost half of this, $400,241, in the general fund.

Other funds on hand:

Assistance funds	43,125

District Judge Says Reclamation Bureau Trying Force Courts

McCook, Neb. — (AP) — District Judge Victor Westmark has refused to reopen a hearing in connection with the Frenchman-Cambridge irrigation district declaring that the bureau of reclamation is trying to coerce the courts into conforming to its wishes.

The judge Friday overruled a motion for a rehearing on a court order he handed down July 19. The re-hearing had been asked by attorneys for the irrigation district.

Judge Westmark held that the motion was filed too late. Therefore the court no longer had jurisdiction to hear the motion, he asserted.

Earlier, he said, the bureau of reclamation had had a chance to intervene but hadn't done it. He noted reports that the bureau was going to halt further work and the pressure was being brought on the irrigation district's attorneys to have the ruling set aside with the threat that otherwise the bureau would not proceed with its contracts.

At the heart of the controversy are the terms of a contract between the federal bureau and the irrigation district.

The Frenchman-Cambridge district is made up of landowners who will use irrigation water in southwest Nebraska made available from bureau-built dams.

Judge Westmark's July 19 ruling approved the formation of the district. It also approved a proposed payment contract between the district and the government, represented by the reclamation bureau.

But the judge turned thumbs down on some sections of the proposed contract.

These sections would have given the interior department (parent body for the reclamation bureau) the right to control rotation and plantings, would have permitted the government to confiscate profits from the sale of non-excess land (within the 160-acre-per-farm limit prescribed by the government) if sold within five years of the establishment of the district, and would have given the government control of waste, seepage and return flow water.

The judge also held that in the Frenchman - Cambridge district, the sale of excess land would not be required along the Meeker canal, because the canal and its water rights were established before the district was formed.

Approval of the contract by the courts is a pre-requisite to operation by the district.

The proposed contract had drawn fire from Sen. Butler (R-Neb.) in Washington even before Judge Westmark made his July 19 ruling.

JUDGE WESTMARK . . . A slap for the reclamation bureau.

Convict Testifies Against Peery In Pool Hall Case

Raymond C. Vastine, now serving one to three years in the state reformatory for grand larceny, steadfastly continued to name Leroy Peery, 20, of Rt. 4 as his partner in a $207 robbery July 28.

Vastine, 20, called to testify at Peery's preliminary hearing on grand larceny charges in Municipal court Friday, continued to assert that Peery planned and executed the Derby pool hall robbery, and that he himself only shared part of the money.

The reformatory inmate first named Peery as the thief when he was arrested early in August. In three sessions on the witness stand Friday he stuck to his story that it was Peery who concealed himself within the building until after closing time in order to get at cash in a display case drawer.

After an unusually long preliminary hearing of over two hours, Peery was bound over to District court for jury trial. Bail was set at $3,000.

Sioux Ordinance Oil Exploration Gets Green Light

OMAHA — (AP) — The green light has been given to exploration for oil on the sprawling Sioux ordinance plant near Sidney, Neb., the Missouri river division office of army engineers said Friday.

An announcement said the Texas Exploration company of Sherman, Tex., has been given permission to conduct a "gravity meter" survey of the field. The survey will start Sept. 15 and is to be completed in two weeks.

The 18,832 acre depot has been out of bounds for exploration, although oil wells on adjacent private property come within a few feet of the depot's boundary.

Army engineers emphasized that the Texas firm's work does not include drilling for oil. A factor in granting permission for the exploration work, the engineers said, was the belief that private wells outside the depot might be draining oil from a pool under the ordinance plant land.

Credit Control Invoked

Truman Will Address U. S. Tonight On Plan For Homefront Curbs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman will broadcast to the nation at 8:30 p. m. (S. T.) tonight a report on how he plans to use the broadcast economic control powers ever held by a United States president.

The power grant became effective when the president signed into law Friday the control bill passed by congress Sept. 1. It gave Mr. Truman somewhat greater authority than that held by President Roosevelt in World War II.

One use—to curb installment-plan buying—was invoked a few minutes after Mr. Truman signed the bill. This was a federal reserve board order tightening, effective Sept. 18, credit terms that can be allowed buyers of autos and many other goods.

Other orders to come and expected to curtail the availability of many consumer goods by directing essential materials required to defense production.

The control program as a whole is intended to accomplish a mobilization speed-up and a check of inflation.

The federal reserve board was able to act fast on consumer credit restrictions because congress said specifically it should wield that control whereas it left the president to say who should handle the other controls.

Minimum Requirements.

The reserve board, observing that easy credit had aided the post-Korea buying rush, set these minimum cash down payment and maximum payoff limits on time buying:

One-third down and 21 months to pay for autos, new or used. (The board said dealers have up to now generally been requiring a 20 per cent down payment.)

Fifteen per cent down and 18 months for refrigerators, food freezers, radio and television sets, phonographs, stoves, ranges, dishwashers, ironers, washing machines, clothes driers, sewing machines, suction (vacuum) cleaners, air conditioners and dehumidifiers.

Furniture, rugs.

Ten per cent and 18 months for furniture and rugs.

Ten per cent and 30 months for home repairs, alterations and improvements. (The federal housing administration began requiring a 102 per cent down payment in August, but allowed 37 months to pay-off.)

Articles listed but costing less than $100 were exempted from the down payment requirements, but made subject to the pay-off time limits.

Installment loans for the purchase of listed articles must conform to the installment sale terms for those articles. Other installment loans must require payment within 18 months. No restrictions were put on charge accounts.

GOP Senate Group Refuses To Support Charges Of Kansas

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The senate republican policy committee refused Saturday to back Sen. Schoepfel (R-Kas) in his charges of communist activity in the interior department.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the group, told reporters "the policy committee disavows all responsibility for Sen. Schoepfel's charges."

The announcement emphasized the concern with which republican leaders viewed Schoepfel's backfiring accusation that Secretary of the Interior Chapman, has "a wrong and close personal alliance" with the Soviet Russian cause.

Party Convinced.

The republican national committee issued a statement Friday saying it had no advance knowledge of Schoepfel's accusation.

Schoepfel himself has conceded, after hearing a blistering reply from Chapman, that his own language may have been "a little strong."

In his broadside attack, delivered in a senate speech Tuesday, Schoepfel also charged communist infiltration into leadership of the fight for Alaskan statehood. Several of those he accused have made documentary denials, and the others are waiting for their turns to make similar denials at an official senate inquiry.

Nancy Kryger Becomes Bride at Church Ceremony

For the 10 o'clock high nuptial mass solemnized for Miss Nancy Lea Kryger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Kryger, and Paul H. Longchamps, Jr., of Boston, Mass., the altar of St. Mary's cathedral was appointed with spreading fans of pink and white gladioli, lighted candles in seven-branched holders, and pyramided greenery. Festal baskets filled with the pink and white blossoms formed the chancel decor, and greenery banked the sanctuary rail. Lighted candles, tied with white satin bows lined the white carpeted processional aisle. The lines of the service were read by Msgr. C. J. Riordan.

Miss Catherine Gillespie presented a prelude of organ music as the three hundred guests assembled, and also accompanied the members of the cathedral choir who sang during the celebration of the high mass, and Louis Demma who sang, "On This Day," as the candles were lighted by Miss Lela Jo Elliott and Miss Rita Ann Skillen, both in peach-toned frocks. During the ceremony Mr. Demma sang, "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

Frocks of lace and net were chosen for the attendants including Miss Clarice Sweeney, the maid of honor who wore blue; and the bridesmaids, Miss Teresa Lilly in pink, and Miss Shirley Jackson in orchid. Above the full, ballerina skirts were snugly fitted bodices over which were worn lace jackets, closed in front with self-covered buttons from the Peter Pan collars to the narrow waists, and completed with circular peplums. The junior bridesmaids, Miss Dianne Cabela and Miss Donna Sue Wedberg of Chappell, wore white-over-pink frocks, sashed with wide satin ribbon. The attendants completed their costumes with bonnet brims and mitts of matching lace and net, and each carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli and feathered carnations.

Dewayne Whitehead served Mr. Longchamps as best man, and the ushers were William Kryger, James Jackson and Jerry Svoboda.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a gown of antique ivory satin for her wedding. The molded, slender bodice was designed with a camisole neckline, its décolletage softened with a modesty of Chantilly lace embroidered with paillettes of iridescent beads and seed pearls. The brief sleeves were of the embroidered lace, and their length was replaced with long, matching lace mitts. The princess line of the gown extended from the narrow waist into the wide, deeply pleated skirt which was finished with a cathedral train. Her veil of French imported Chantilly lace had a scalloped edge and was held by a Mary, Queen of Scots, trim of pleated satin trimmed with seed pearls. She carried an Empire bouquet of orchid toned gladioli centered with a white orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for the members of the bridal party and family was held at Cotner Terrace, followed by a reception for the wedding guests. Nougats of pink gladioli ornamented the swagged, white satin-covered bridal table which was arranged with pink tapers in three-branched crystal candelabra, and a tiered wedding cake wreathed with pink gladioli and ivy. Assisting at the re-

Just a Newsy Week-End

WE'RE LIVING in anticipation of three weeks from this week-end—the first football week-end of the season—judging from this and that we gather the Friday-to-Sunday period will be rather gay, and exciting—

BUT WE HAVE EXCITING news today, too—Did anyone guess the identity of the prominent Lincoln musician who had a tentative wedding date set for early September?

Today we have more information—this time allegedly very definite—We hear that Miss Beth Miller announced to friends that she had chosen Monday, September 18, as the date of her marriage to Colonel Carleton Harrod—and that the wedding will take place in Colorado—with only the family and a small group of friends attending.

HEARD THAT Lieut. and Mrs. Sam Goodale and their daughter, Stephanie, who spent the past week as the house guests of Mrs. Goodale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Iverson, left today to return to Colorado Springs where Lieut. Goodale is stationed.

AND OFF ON SUNDAY to resume her duties as dean of women at Doane college, Crete, will be Mrs. Florence Walt.

THE BASSINET CLUB had news for us today, too—There was a large fanfare in the nursery at Lincoln General hospital on Friday, September 8, so we hear, to welcome John Baylor Little who arrived on that date. The small Johnny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Little of Cleveland, O., and his mother as of course you know, is the former Nancy Baylor. Incidentally the young man was named after his uncle, John Baylor.

ception were Mrs. Orville Smith of Omaha, Mrs. D. P. Wedberg of Chappell, Mrs. H. B. Lilly, Mrs. John Love, Mrs. Paul Heidrick, Mrs. Wesley Jordan, Mrs. A. C. Cabela, Miss Jere, Ann Merritt, Miss Madge Matthews, Miss Pat Kraft, Miss Joan Hansen, Miss Margaret Ann Olson, Miss Rosemary Graham and Mrs. Marvin Benhke.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Longchamps will make their home at Wichita, Kas. The bride wore for traveling a suit of black gabardine with black velvet accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Late August Ceremony

On Sunday evening, August 27, Miss Joan Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Wheeler, became the bride of Edwin Wilcox, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilcox, at an 8 o'clock ceremony solemnized at the First Methodist church. Baskets filled with white and pink gladioli, and lighted white candles in seven-branched candelabra, appointed the chancel for the service, the lines of which were read by the Rev. Joseph Riley Burns.

As the one hundred twenty-five guests assembled, Miss Mary Leback sang, "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Mildred Ohlsund, organist, who also played the wedding music.

Mrs. Norman Vermaas was the matron of honor and was frocked in a gown of aqua satin, fashioned low, rounded neckline, fitted bodice closed down the front with small, satin-covered buttons, and circular skirt. She wore long mitts of matching satin and carried a nosegay of pink asters frilled with nylon lace. Frocked identically in cloud pink satin with matching headbands and long mitts were the bridesmaids, Miss Janice Johnson and Miss Pat Weyand, who carried bouquets of aqua-tinted asters and white nylon lace. Wearing a floor-length gown of pink taffeta with a wrist-corsage of pink asters was Miss Judy Wheeler, cousin of the bride, who lighted the candles.

The bride wore for her wedding a gown of white slipper satin designed in the princess mode. Small, satin-covered buttons, and a high, jewel neckline accented the moulded bodice, and the long, fitted sleeves ended in points over the hands. The full skirt was caught at the back in unpressed folds which tapered into a train, and a cap of white nylon frosted with seed pearls held her cape-veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible ornamented with white and pink roses.

Norman Vermaas served Mr. Wilcox as best man, and the ushers were Larry Dutton and Gerald Barnes.

A reception was held in the church parlors, and included among those assisting were Miss Pat Beam, Mrs. Gerald Barnes, Miss Beverly Taylor and Miss Ray Gans. A tiered wedding cake and white tapers formed the centerpiece for the bridal table.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox will make their home at 4125 M street following a wedding trip. Mrs. Wilcox wore for traveling a suit of beige wool with brown velvet accessories.

Miss Lynne Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Morgan, who will leave next week to attend Christian college, Columbia, Mo., will be the honored guest Sunday afternoon when Miss Mary Ann Lauer and Miss Twila Carlson will entertain at an informal dessert at 3 o'clock. MRS. WILLIAM ROBERT WIDENER

Early September Ceremony For Nedra Marcum And William Widener

Pink and white gladioli in pedestal baskets, and tall candles in seven-branched candelabra were arranged against a background of trellised greenery to appoint the chancel of the First Presbyterian church for the wedding of Miss Nedra Marcum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Marcum of Ardmore, Okla., and William Robert Widener, son of Mrs. Marguerite Woodruff Widener of Lincoln, and W. O. Widener of St. Simon's Island, Ga., which was an event of Sunday evening, September 3. Lighted candles, caught with clusters of tuberoses, lined the processional aisle. The 8:30 o'clock service was solemnized by Elder M. V. Campbell in the presence of two hundred guests, and the wedding music was played by Miss Grace Finch, organist. Miss Finch also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hartwick Hansen as they sang a duet, "God Gave Me You," and Donald Carlson who sang, "The Lord's Prayer," at the ceremony.

Miss Milli Grierson, the maid of honor, in pink, and the bridesmaids, Miss Doralee Kaufman in yellow, and Miss Dorothy Dixon in aqua, wore identically styled frocks of taffeta. Their frock-tone shoulder veils were held in place with tiaras of daisies, and each carried a white satin muff with white chrysanthemums to match their frocks. Donna Ruth Carlson, wearing a frock identical to that of the maid of honor, was the flower girl, and four year-old David Green was Bible boy. The candles were lighted by Miss Mary Julia Henkelman and Miss Pamela Andrews, frocked in white.

Foster Woodruff served his cousin as best man, and the ushers included Ernest Phillips, William Shraake, Harold Clark and Frank Riskey, Jr. The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Neville R. Sutton, appeared in a gown of ivory satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that tapered to points at the wrists. The full skirt, worn over hoops, was completed with a long court train. Her double-tiered veil of illusion was fingertip length and was held to the head with a satin bonnet edged with tulle and ornamented with seed pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy leaves, centered with a white orchid.

A reception at Engel hall, on the union college campus, followed the ceremony. The refreshment table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake encircled with yellow roses, and on either side were tall white tapers in silver candelabra. A three-tiered groom's cake was served from a companion table appointed with white Fujii chrysanthemums, daisies and lighted candles in silver candelabra. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Edwin B. Ogden, Mrs. Reginald Woodruff, Mrs. M. V. Campbell, Mrs. Ray Fowler, Mrs. Harry Rein-

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
